GERMAN-RUSSIAN TREATY REVEALED

Provides Russo-German War Against France, Belgium And Poland.

Berlin, March 23.—Gen. Ludendorff next to Hindenberg the biggest German figure in the world war, and Herr Hitler, leader of the "nationalist Socialists" (German Fascists) negotiated with Lieut. Rossbach, reactionary leader of the German Peoples' party, for recruiting volunteers to fight the French in the Ruhr, it was openly charged in the Prussian Landtag today by Herr Severing, Prussian minister of interior, a Socialist.

Munich, Bavaria, March 23.—A forged treaty between Germany and Russia, providing that Germany and Russia shall go to war against Poland (France's military ally) in the event that French and Belgian troops advance further into Germany, is being circulated in the Rhineland, it was learned today.

Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno, who came here to confer with Bavarian officials, today denied that any such treaty exists.

This declaration was made under the most dramatic circumstances and beneath the stress of great excitement. This was due to the fact that revelation had been made to the chancellor that a former German army officer had offered to the correspondent the text of a so-called Russo-German treaty. This "treaty" according to the officer, consisted of two parts.

From an international political viewpoint, Chancellor Cuno's denial was most important. It intimates that arrests will be made of certain persons (notably former army officers) who have been circulating reports that a treaty of alliance exists between Moscow and Berlin. The chancellor's declaration has a most important bearing on international relations between this country and Soviet Russia.

The first secret treaty was purported to be signed Oct. 26, 1922, Nicolai Lenin, Leonide Krassin, George Tchitcherin, President Ebert of Germany; Chancellor Wirth (now retired) and M. Walitzman.

The second secret compact was said to be a military agreement based upon Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr. This second protocol (which proposed war against Poland) was said to have been signed on Jan. 16 last by George Tchitcherin, Russian foreign minister; Baron Rosenberg, German foreign secretary and General Von Seeckt, a German military officer who is credited with being in league with the militarists.

This latter part was said to provide that there should be a Russo-German war against France, Belgium and Poland in case of a further Franco-Belgian advance into Germany.

MAYOR HEADS RAID ON EAGLES' TEMPLE

Thousand Gallons Of Home
Brew Found In Eagles'
Home In Alliance.

Alliance, March 23.—Alliance municipal authorities headed by Mayor Norman W. Clark late Thursday afternoon made one of the biggest liquor raids in police annals when they seized a complete brewery in the basement of the new Eagles' temple.

More than 1,000 gallons of "home brew" bottled or in process of manufacture, together with bottling and brewing apparatus that assumed the proportions of a modest brewery were seized by the raiding officers.

Officials of Lone Craig Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles were placed under arrest under formal charges of possessing and manufacturing alcoholic beverages. Tests of the seized brew will be made by Prof. C. C. Klingler, chemist on the faculty of Mount Union college.

Search warrants authorizing the raid were sworn out in the court of Common Pleas Judge Abraham W. Agler at Canton. Included in the raiding party were Mayor Norman W. Clark, Safety Director Frank Shaw, Police Chief Howard Morris, Police Captain Stark and Patrolmen Dieterick and Taylor.

Oil Men Are Flocking To New Tiffin Field

Tiffin, O., March 23.—Oil men from all sections were pouring into this city today, following the opening of a new producing field east of Tiffin. The first well put down is good for 150 barrels daily, oil men assert.

Stricken While Flying To Husband

Earl and Lady Carnarvon.

When the Earl of Carnarvon, discoverer, with Howard Carter, the American, of the tomb of King Tutankhamen, near Luxor, Egypt, was stricken with critical poisoning as the result of the bite of an insect his wife, herself a trained nurse, secured an airplane in London in an attempt to fly to his bedside. She was stricken so ill in the air a forced landing had to be made in France, and she continued by train, declaring she would resume the flight if her physician would permit her.

SHORTS TO SETTLE AT $100 A SHARE ON PIGGLY WIGGLY

President Who Engineered Corner On Market Issues Statement.

New York, March 23.—Shorts in the stock of Piggly Wiggly, a chain grocery store company, can settle at $100 a share, Clarence Saunders, president of Piggly Wiggly, who engineered a corner, announced today through his New York attorneys.

The statement said the shares could be had by applying to the National Bank of Commerce which was acting as agent for the Memphis men who took the Wall st shorts into camp.

A statement issued by Saunders said: "I propose for full settlement today of all accounts of Piggly Wiggly stores, Class A stock, that I will furnish this stock upon application for same to the National Bank of Commerce and on payment of $100 a share."

The settlement price offered by Saunders is $18 a share above the last sale made at the stock exchange before that organization struck the shares from the trading list.

Dr. McCormack Will Speak Here Tonight

As a preliminary to the every-member membership and financial canvass to be made in the First Presbyterian church here Sunday, Dr. McCormack, ex-chancellor of Pittsburgh university, will address men of the church at a dinner to be served at 6 p. m. Friday at the church.

The talk will probably deal with the work to be accomplished and the campaign planning to attend the dinner anticipate an interesting entertainment. The canvass will be completed in one day.

Crowded Hall Hears Salvation Army Band

To an audience that filled the hall, the East Liverpool Salvation Army band, composed of about 30 people, gave a concert Thursday evening at the Salvation Army barracks, West Gren st. About 10 people accompanied the band members, including Commandant and Mrs. Abrams. A male quartet from East Liverpool sang. Commandant Abrams gave a talk. Two soldiers were enrolled.

Criqui Can't Fight Kilbane For Title

New York, March 23.—Eugene Criqui, featherweight champion of Europe, will arrive here tomorrow only to be informed Johnny Kilbane will not be allowed to box him for the world's title at the Polo grounds June 2. Kilbane's title has been declared vacated by the New York state athletic commission and he will not be granted a license to box here, Chairman Muldoon declared.

Auditor Distributes December Tax Funds

A total of $1,209,406 December taxes has been listed for distribution by County Auditor Hamilton. Of this sum over $400,000 has been paid out in advance to the different school districts, leaving $809,406 to be distributed. Of this amount, the state tributed $77,810; county funds $392,237; divided into township funds, $112,525; cities and villages, $228,627; rural schools, $743,185.

Chicken Nuisance Brings Complaint, Owners Are Named

Persons owning chickens are notified in a warning issued Friday morning by Chief of Police T. W. Thompson against allowing them to run at large over other people's property.

Numerous complaints have been received by Chief Thompson about chickens causing trouble and the practice must be stopped immediately, he stated.

"Anyone caught allowing chickens to run at large faces a fine in police court," declared the police head.

Due to the approach of spring, chickens running loose will cause inconvenience to persons attempting to plant gardens.

BRISTOL REMOVES FILLING STATION ON M'KINLEY AVE.

Service Director Acts As Company Fails To Meet City's Demand.

Acting in accordance with the orders given to him by city council, Service Director John Bristol Friday morning supervised the removal of the outbuilding on McKinley ave. used as a gasoline filling station by the Elton Motors company.

The company had been given written notice some time ago to have the building removed from the sidewalk but they failed to comply with the demand. They were granted 10 days in which to fulfill the orders given by council, this time limit expiring at midnight Wednesday.

Director Bristol with a squad of city employees went to the Elton garage shortly after 9 a. m. Friday and notified them that they were there to remove the building.

The operator of the filling station declared that the director would have to communicate with the Vahey Oil company, whose offices are in Youngstown, but Director Bristol stated that he was there to remove the building according to his orders.

The contents of the building were removed and the structure moved to a spot just east of the Elton garage. The workers met with no opposition and the work was completed within a short time.

The matter was brought to the attention of city council more than a month ago and the solons ordered the building removed because of the fact that it conflicted with a city ordinance. They declared it would establish a bad precedent to allow the building to remain there as other merchants would be given the same privilege and it would only be a short time before numerous other buildings and stands of like nature would be in place along Main st.

POLICE CONTINUE LIQUOR CRUSADE

Visit Two Places Without
Results; Welcome Tips
In Good Faith.

Two more places were visited by police Thursday afternoon in their search for manufacturers of booze but in neither place was found anything of an incriminating nature.

The places had been reported to police both being in the outlying district of Salem. They were searched thoroughly by the police officers, headed by Chief T. W. Thompson. The squad also included Officer Jesse Gray and Firemen Yardwood and Lewis.

The raids were part of the plan of campaign mapped out at city hall for the general crusade against violators of the prohibition law.

The police have requested that persons wishing to report places where it is believed whisky is being manufactured or handled in any way, do so in good faith as they will pay no attention to anonymous communications.

INTERURBAN CAR HITS LANDSLIDE

The southbound Y. & O. car which left Lisbon at 9 o'clock this morning ran into a landslide near Bakers' stop. The crew composed of Conductor Truman Crawford and Motorman J. A. Mahoney managed to get the car through the slide and on the Baker siding.

A construction crew cleared up the track but the passenger car was so badly damaged that a road repair crew had to be called before it could be taken to the barns at Leetonia.

Passengers were transferred to the 10 o'clock south bound car. Traffic from East Liverpool north was delayed one hour by the accident.

Mrs. Peppel Awarded Divorce For Cruelty

Mrs. Florence Peppel, who had entered suit for divorce from her husband, Marcus Peppel, who lives north of Lisbon, was granted a decree Friday by Judge Moore after testimony had been presented showing extreme cruelty on the part of the husband. Both Mr. and Mrs. Peppel are prominently known in the vicinity.

Passion Play Disappointing, Declares Miss Snyder

Salem Woman Is Shocked By Lack Of Sunday Observance
Where Great Religious Play Is Presented—Tells About Experiences In Other Countries.

Editor's Note.—This is the third letter from Miss Edna Snyder of Salem, who is teaching an American girls' school in Bulgaria, is perhaps the most interesting. It discusses the religious life in the countries through which she traveled on her way to Samokov.

American School For Girls,
Samokov, Bulgaria.
Feb. 26, 1923.

Our stay in Munich was very short. We had just time enough to get a lunch and have some money changed into marks, 1,200 marks for one dollar. By 1 o'clock p. m. we were again aboard a train speeding toward Oberammergau where we arrived at 4 p. m. The time spent on the train passed all too soon because of the beautiful scenery (the German Tyrol) through which we passed.

Oberammergau is extremely quaint with winding streets, old-fashioned coaches, men with knee breeches and bare legs, soft low-crowned hats with quills stuck in the bands, and girls in peasant costume. A porter took our luggage in a push cart and rushed along its crooked streets to our place of abode in the home of Emanuel Lang which was a typical peasant cottage.

Where They Slept
The front door opened into a central hall which was paved with brick and divided into three parts. From the first third a door on the left opened into our dining room, the middle third formed the family kitchen and contained a huge brick stove (on the edge of which I sat once or twice when it was the only warm place in the house) and a small table; the remaining third was a passage way which led to our room where Miss Douglas and I had small separate beds.

We slept on feathers and for cover we had a blanket and a feather puff which was a young feather bed. It was necessary to wake up every hour of the night and drag that puff from the floor where it seemed determined to stay as if animated by the spirits of the geese that had furnished the feathers.

In spite of a raging headache when I arrived I rushed out to buy postcards before supper because it was Saturday night and I knew I would not have time to buy anything Monday morning as we were leaving on an early train that morning. I did not go far but when ready to return I couldn't find the house. Rain had begun and meeting a little German boy and his sister I asked them to guide me to the home of Emanuel Lang which they did grudgingly at me all the way which wasn't more than 30 steps and when I paid them they ran off apparently very happy.

Visits Anton Lang's Home
After supper the young man of the family went with me to the home of Anton Lang, the Christus of the Passion Play.

Predict United States May Declare Sugar Independency

Country Has a Potential
Production To Meet
All Demands.

Washington, March 23.—The United States may soon declare her sugar independency, government officials announced today.

With prices climbing, world supply said to be in the hands of a half-dozen speculators, and the market ridden with foreign combinations and monopolies, this country has a potential sugar production to more than meet domestic demands.

Studies of production of both beet and cane sugar have developed the possibilities of wide expansion of the industry. New varieties of cane have been discovered in extensive experimentation in Georgia.

"From the standpoint of soil and climatic conditions there is no reason why this country cannot produce sufficient sugar for the demand," Dr. C. O. Townsend, sugar expert of the agricultural department, said today.

He pointed out that economic consideration of an expansion of the industry, such as ability to compete with foreign sugar by economic production, are being given attention by the agricultural department.

The purpose of this meeting is to explain what might be done in the near future toward a community dramatic program, also to discuss holding a dramatic institute. The matter of giving a pageant here this summer probably will be taken up.

INDUSTRY TO USE AIR FREIGHTERS DECLARES H. FORD

Detroit Auto Man Also Sees
$10 Minimum Wage In Next 20 Years.

HIGHWAYS WILL BE FREIGHT CARRIERS

Ford Asserts Big Business
Makes Laborer Worth
More To Himself.

Detroit, March 23.—A minimum wage of $10 a day for skilled labor may be a regulation in industry 20 years from now, according to Henry Ford, motor car and tractor manufacturer, railway owner and inventor.

Ford believes that American industry in 1943 will be using air freighters and that big manufacturers will own their own water power, railways, coal mines and sources of raw materials.

Labor, Ford asserts, is becoming more and more skilled as new machines are invented to do the work once accomplished by hand. At the same time the workman's life will be easier, owing to numerous labor-saving devices in use.

"Twenty years ago what would people have said if a railway company had announced it was going to build a good highway adjacent to the tracks?" asked Ford. "But I do not need to answer that question. The people would have thought the railroad officials crazy—crazy to open competition in such a manner."

Will Use Air.

"Probably the officials of the transportation company would have thought a similar thing. Today, to me, it is good business. Industry, twenty years from now, will be using the highways for freight transportation. It will be using the air also."

"There is so much water power lying idle that, 20 years hence, big manufacturers will be using it. They will have their own water power, their own coal mines, their own railways, their own factories—they will own everything that enters into the manufacture of their product—own it, and control it."

"Owning the raw products is the fundamental basis of it all. Owning those raw products and utilizing them to the best advantage and wasting nothing. Waste is expense."

"Labor—that is, the laboring man—will have an easier and better time. Manufacturers today are installing labor-saving devices, installing them as fast as they can get the proven ones. It is a difficult thing now to find a man who hasn't a trade. Digging ditches has ceased to be a profession of muscle. I watched the other every revolution of the chain. That scooped out three truckloads with every revolution of the chain. That means man labor all to pieces."

Big Business Aids Laborer

"Labor is becoming more skilled. What is good for the manufacturer is good for the man who works for him. Years ago when the $5 a day wage scale was inaugurated in our factories, there was a great deal of criticism from a great many sources. We were charged with being 'unreasonable.' Today wages are high. Our scale is six dollars a day."

"I don't know where that minimum scale will stop. It is entirely up to the workingman. As we continue to prosper so will the workingman continue to prosper. This is true of other manufacturers."

"Big business makes the laborer worth more to himself. He is worth to business what he is worth to himself—even though his minimum wage scale be ten dollars a day. Big business will put a premium on skill."

Dinner For Floor Teams

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cox, East High st., was the center of a most enjoyable social event Thursday evening when they were hosts at a four-course dinner to members of the first and second basketball teams of the Salem High school.

The dining room was charmingly decorated in red and black streamers and the two tables at which the guests were served were made beautiful with red tulips, and the pretty place cards were appropriate to the occasion. D. W. Vivian, physical director of the high school, was toastmaster. In his talk he expressed appreciation for the co-operation of members of the teams with him and also of the splendid work done by the boys. Each boy was presented a red rose.

After the dinner, Marion Cox, son of the hosts, a member of the center team, took the guests to the picture show at the high school.

Wesleyan Class

Plans for a banquet for members of the Wesleyan Girls class and E. A. McCullough class Tuesday evening, April 10, was made at a meeting of the Wesleyan class Thursday evening at the home of Misses Emma and Elizabeth Grubbs, Cleveland ave. Mrs. Rena Kenneweg was assistant hostess. This program was given:

Paper, "Alaska," Mrs. Oyster; reading, "The Spell of the Yukon," Mrs. Russell Gibbs; Current Events, Miss Helen Chancellor; vocal solo, Miss Mary Louise Mellinger. A regular meeting of the class will be Thursday evening, April 19.

James Covert

Rev. D. E. Scott, pastor of the Lisbon M. E. church, read the service that united the lives of Miss Dolores James and G. Paul Covert, well known people of Salem, late Thursday afternoon at his home in Lisbon.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry James, East High st., was graduated from Salem High school and is widely known in musical circles here. Mr. Covert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Covert, Mt. Union, Pa., is employed in the Pennsylvania station at Alliance.

A supper was served for the couple at the bride's home last evening after which they went to their home on Chestnut st.

Leap Year Club

Mrs. Frank Everstine, Roosevelt ave., was hostess to members of the Leap Year club Thursday afternoon. As this was the birthday anniversary of the hostess the guests surprised her by presenting her a gift. Fancy work and lunch were pleasures. A meeting in two weeks will be with Mrs. Arthur Hilliard, Franklin rd.

Martha Washington Club

An informal gathering of the Martha Washington club members was held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. William Potts, hostess at her home, Jennings ave. The usual diversions interested the members. Mrs. Samuel West, North Union st., has invited the members to her home for a meeting in two weeks.

Lincoln Club

Lincoln club members entertained their husbands Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zeigler, Newgarden st. Music, games and "stunts" composed the amusement program and refreshments were served. A regular meeting of the club probably will be in two weeks.

Ellsworth Avenue Club

Needlework and visiting occupied the hours at a meeting of the Ellsworth Avenue club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard Miller, Ellsworth rd. In two weeks the members will be guests of Mrs. Earl Minser, Ellsworth rd.

Dinner and Cards

Mr. and Mrs. William Gabriel entertained their club associates at a 6 o'clock dinner Thursday evening at their home, West Pershing ave. The after dinner hours were whiled away at "500."

Mrs. Henry Moff, who is seriously ill, was taken to Marion Thursday where she will enter a sanitarium for treatment. She was accompanied by her son Ralph Moff and her nurse Miss Mayer.

Miss Catherine Votaw, student at Ohio university, Athens, is spending the spring vacation here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Votaw, Garfield ave.

J. A. Marietta, Fredericksburg, is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Phebe Gardner, Ohio ave.

Rev. W. Lee Vincent of Hurley, S. D., arrived in Salem Friday morning and is visiting relatives.

Ralph McAllister of Dunganon, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Frank McAllister, Main st.

Mrs. David Feltz of Woodland ave., who has been ill of grip for two weeks is slowly improving.

Mrs. E. H. Ward, East Seventh st., who has been ill of grip, is reported to be improved.

Mrs. W. B. Wilkins is suffering from an attack of grip.

Teachers of the Junior High school entertained at a beautifully appointed dinner Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. M. Lyle, Tenth st. The affair was given in honor of Miss Esther Gallagher, whose approaching marriage to Chester Smith of Pittsburgh will be an event of the near future.

In the table appointments and a radio yellow and white tones were used. The evening, Miss Gallagher was presented with gifts.

Miss Gallagher is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Gallagher. Mr. Smith is the son of Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Smith of Cleveland, formerly of Salem.

OBITUARY

George Lambert

The funeral for George Lambert, Cleveland, formerly of Salem, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the home of his niece, Mrs. Mabel Ringnell, 358 Ellsworth ave., in charge of Rev. G. A. Beers and the Odd Fellows. Interment in Grandview burial park.

George Lambert was born Dec. 17, 1843, in London, England. He came here in June 1873 and worked for the Mullins company for 35 years. He was a member of Amity lodge No. 124, I. O. O. F., for 45 years. He moved to Cleveland 14 years ago. He is survived by one son, William Lambert, Cleveland.

Peter Grossen

Peter Grossen, 79, died Wednesday night at the home of his son, P. H. Grossen, east of Georgetown, following an illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Grossen was born in Switzerland. He had been a resident of the Columbiana district for a number of years. He is survived by three sons and two daughters.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at the home, with Rev. Mr. Faust, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating. Interment in the Columbiana cemetery.

Christian Zimmerman

Christian Zimmerman, 71, died at his home in New Springfield, Thursday, following a brief illness of pneumonia. He is survived by two sons and one daughter.

Funeral service will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday at the Lutheran church in Columbiana. Rev. Mr. Faust will officiate. Interment at New Springfield.

BIG EXPENSE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Columbus, March 23.—The biennial appropriation bill for the operation of the state government, totaling $72,966,208.55, the largest amount in history, was passed by a unanimous vote Thursday by the house of representatives. There was little discussion on the measure and only a few minutes were required for its approval. It now goes to the senate.

Among the amounts appropriated under the measure was $1,653,000 for the Kent Normal school against which the finance committee of both houses had issued an edict that no funds would be available unless Dr. J. E. McGilvrey was removed as president. Previous to passage of the bill Rep. Silver of Preble county, explained that the appropriation was placed in a bill, but that the school would be the subject of legislation intended to bring it to "proper standards."

LEGAL NOTICE

IDA FRITZCHMAN, Phoenix, Ariz. You will take notice that on the 12th day of March, 1923, William Bradway, as Guardian of Emma Derr, filed in the Probate Court of Columbiana county, O., a petition, the object and prayer of which is, to procure said court to order the sale of the real estate of the said Emma Derr, situated in the county of Columbiana, Ohio, and described as follows, to-wit:

Known as part of the Frey farm and being more or less the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of section 34, township 16, range 4, thence south with section line 11 chains and 78 1-2 links to a stone, thence due west 12 chains and 12 1-2 links to the land of Benj. Stratton, thence north 11 chains and 78 1-2 links to the quarter section line; thence east on said line 12 chains and 12 1-2 links to the place of beginning, containing 14.29-job acres. Being the same premises conveyed by Josiah Cameron to James D. Derr by deed dated September 18, 1885, recorded in Vol. 160, page 268 of the Columbiana County Deed Records.

The application therefore will be for hearing by said court on the 23rd day of April, 1923, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., at which time unless you show cause to the contrary, an order will be granted as prayed for in said petition.

WILLIAM S. BRADWAY, Guardian of Emma Derr.

POTTERS RE-ELECT OFFICERS, REPORT

East Liverpool, March 23.—Re-election of John T. Wood and John D. McGilivray, president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, was forecast here last night as ballot on nominations for officers in the organization came to a close.

The election vote will be tabulated next Wednesday night following balloting on the nominees by various craft locals that day. It was reported at headquarters.

Yesterday was primary day. While neither Mr. Wood or Mr. McGilivray issued any statement, it was believed certain the entire executive board had been re-nominated. Those besides the foregoing two included:

George H. Carlidge, Trenton, first vice president; George Chadwick, East Liverpool, second vice president; Louis Driber, Trenton, third vice president; S. M. Moore, Trenton, fourth vice president; Thomas B. Dennis, Trenton, fifth vice president; T. M. Woods, Sebring, sixth vice president; Frank Hull, East Liverpool, seventh vice president.

STOCKS

MARKET OPENS QUIET

New York, March 23.—The stock market opened quiet today with price changes irregular and mainly of small fractions. Maryland Oil was a strong exception, advancing over two points at 54½. Kelly-Springfield gained ¾ to 61¾. U. S. Steel was ¼ lower at 108.

Corn products advanced 5¢ to 132½. There was little doing in the railroad and motor groups.

GLORIOUS EASTER

Summons the World to New Apparel

The world's at its Spring! Easter Modes arrive! They clarify forth a summons to don them—to go forth arrayed in garments that match the bright Eastertide world. The Store presents these Spring things confident of their dominating desirability. They adroitly combine youth-giving charm with authentic and distinctive style.

SUITS

Brisk are sports modes of camel's hair—or buoyantly checked velours—for their boxed or flared coats have winsome turn down collars with very youth-giving lines. Costume Tailors have bodies of silk beautifully intricate in handwork. Cinder and greystone are new colors. $29.50 to $55.00

FROCKS

From the printed Frock with its exotic oriental charm, its simple one-piece style, to dressy Frocks of flat crepe, Frocks present a variety whose spice is irresistible! Sports modes particularly challenge attention. Of course they include many a knitted mode.

$15.00 to $75.00

WRAPS

Many an intriguing little sports Coat is braided or embroidered in oriental designs—many a dressy Wrap draped on the side—many a swagger Topcoat briskly plaided or checked in color. Capes too, are smart. Very new ones have oriental touches or heavy straight-up-and-down cordings. Others trimmed with fur collars.

$12.00 to $75.00

French Perfume Flagonettes 50c

Your favorite perfume is no doubt here in an interesting container to slip in your bag, ready to administer a bit of sweetness at any time. Such names as Piver's Floramye, Quelques Fleurs, Luxtone, Colgate's and Jergens.

CONGRESS BLOCS CAUSE ANXIETY

LEADERS FEAR THEIR EFFECT ON PARTY LEGISLATION IN FUTURE SESSIONS.

THESE GROUPS NUMEROUS

Able to Force Compromises That Distort Measures Out of All Semblance to the Original—Each Bloc Has Propaganda Agents.

Washington.—The experiences of the last session of congress have made leaders of both political parties in Washington wonder what is going to happen in the future if the present indications of "government by blocs" shall reach lasting reality.

Party lines frequently were wiped out in the house during the last session of the Sixty-seventh congress. The voting on many occasions was by groups which took no cognizance at all of party labels. Some of the leaders actually are apprehensive that anything like celerity in legislation will be impossible in future congresses unless there can be a return in some way to groups of two parties instead of to groups of a dozen blocs.

In the Sixty-seventh congress there was an ex-service men's bloc, a workman's bloc, a dry bloc, a wet bloc, a big business bloc, an agricultural bloc and a radical bloc, although the members of the last named bloc prefer the word progressive to radical as descriptive of their efforts.

There does not seem to be any thought in Washington that party designations will disappear, but the fear is strong that it will be almost impossible eventually to get anything resembling party legislation through congress unless so many compromises are made to suit this bloc and that bloc that the legislation as originally intended will have lost all semblance of itself.

Every Bloc Has Its Headquarters.

Virtually every one of the blocs which have been named maintains some kind of headquarters in Washington. The men charged with the work of keeping track of legislation in which the various blocs are interested are on the ground all the time. They are called legislative agents, although another and older name for them is lobbyists. Every one of the blocs carries on propaganda of some kind or other. It seeks to reach the press of the country with its views and it succeeds generally because the men charged with the propaganda work know the value of news and they succeed frequently in creating news which must be printed because it is news.

Before the fascist movement reached its climax of success in Italy the Italian legislative chamber was composed of blocs. There were as many groups as there have been this winter in the lower house of congress. Legislation in Italy was haphazard, and frequently the results were compromises which made the original measures look like patchwork quilts. The fascists did not break up these groups, but today the delegates are doing what Mussolini wants them to do. The wonder is here if anything of this kind will ever happen in the United States as the result of the present tendency of the national lawmakers to break up into sections which seemingly seldom can be fitted into one another as children's blocks do to make a perfected whole.

Naturally the leaders of the various blocs say there is no danger that the present conditions will continue, because their particular bloc soon will dominate the affairs of the country by having won all the voters over to its way of thinking. In other words, some one Republican bloc, small today in its integral parts, is to become the entire Republican party, and some Democratic bloc of today in its time will become the whole Democratic party.

Conservative Vs. Radical.

Now inasmuch as there are a dozen or so of these blocs and the leaders of each think that its will eventually is to prevail, it is easy enough to see how much of a struggle there is to be before final unity shall come. Some men here say that the day of complete unity will come only when human nature has turned itself inside out.

When the next congress comes into being certain of the blocs will have received reinforcements, and one or two others may have disappeared. There is a feeling in a few quarters that eventually all the blocs will disappear and with them perhaps the Republican and Democratic parties as at present constituted, and that in their place will come two great parties known as conservatives and progressives. This thing probably will not happen, but it is certain today that the two political parties in congress during the session just closed have contained conservatives, and advanced, almost radical, thinkers.

Some of the politicians, and students of the situation generally in Washington, say that a conservative party as such and called such would draw largely from the ranks of both of the older parties, while the progressive party, or as the conservatives would call it, the radical party, also would draw heavily from the Republican and Democratic parties as now constituted.

CLAIMS MEDICINE ISN'T THE SPRING TONIC BOY NEEDS

By DR. FRANK G. BOUDREAU
Chief, Division of Communicable Diseases

This is the time of year when old cobwebby bottles are brought out and shaken and Johnny keeps out of his mother's sight because spring tonic time has come. When the buds appear on the tree and the freckles erupt on Johnny's face, mother knows it is time to give him the old mixture, a tradition which has been handed down from the Garden of Eden when Eve gave Cain and Abel the ancient equivalent of sulphur and molasses. Whatever may have been the effect on these first children, the practice has come down to this year of our civilization. Makers of patent medicines have capitalized the belief that children should be given medicine to cleanse the blood in the spring. Medicines for this purpose are legion and have one good thing in common: a large percentage of profit for the makers. Their beneficial results to the unfortunate victim are nil, except for the discipline in taking something nasty.

Children do need tonics in the spring. They need tonics in winter, summer and fall as well. The vitamins they need are not found in bottles. No medicine dispensed can equal the tonics that nature bestows: a man with a lavish hand—sunshine, fresh air, fruit, fresh vegetables and such foods as milk and eggs. No tonic devised by man will cleanse the blood like these. None is so cheap, none so effective.

The belief that a spring tonic is needed from Johnny's behavior at this time. He is restless and moody; can't keep his mind on his school work, has a faraway look in his eyes and is as restless as a dog looking for a place to sleep. In some cases, the symptoms are worse. Some children who have had little fresh food, only a small amount of outdoor exercise and no fresh air in their sleeping rooms, are pale and sickly like a plant deprived of sunshine and moisture. They droop and have no vitality because they have been denied the gifts that nature bestows so freely on her children.

By all means give your children spring tonics, but let those tonics be sunshine, outdoor air, fresh fruit and vegetables and not the so-called tonic mixtures. If your children look as if they needed a tonic, have them examined by a reputable physician. If their living conditions are healthy, children should flourish like a field of other animals. If they fail young of other animals, it is wrong to do so, something must be located and a competent physician will locate the trouble and remove it if it is to start afresh on the road to health, thus using an ancient but erroneous tradition to the best advantage.

Radio fans know that the radio enthusiast who follows the advice of every amateur will end with a mass of useless apparatus. On the other hand, people who have declined in health will try every remedy proposed, no matter who the author of the suggestion. The human body is more delicate than the most complicated piece of radio apparatus, and in

LEETONIA NEWS

Men from far and near gathered at the Fred Floding home east of Leetonia Wednesday at the site of all farm machinery and implements. Mr. Floding is giving up farming but will continue to live in his commodious country home for the present though it has been rumored that he and family are contemplating going to California to live.

A special meeting of the Leetonia lodge No. 461 F. and A. M. will be held at the Masonic rooms, Friday evening. Work in the E. A. degree will be put on.

James Caldwell and Oscar Calladine who have for a number of years been conducting a feed and flour business on South Chestnut and State streets have dissolved partnership. Mr. Caldwell continuing the business at the same stand, while Mr. Calladine has accepted a position at the Crescent machine shop.

Mrs. Elmer Stiller and Mrs. Fred Neheisel visited Mrs. Phoebe Koch of this place, who is lying very low at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Isaac Rower, west of Columbiana, Tuesday. Very little hope is held out for her recovery.

T. S. Arnold was in Youngstown Tuesday where he visited Mrs. Arnold who is under treatment at the Youngstown hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heck and children of North Lima visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Floding the first of the week.

Mrs. L. E. Harmon of Columbiana, a Leetonia caller Tuesday. It is reported that Mr. and Mrs. Jud Whitacre will go back to their country home earlier this spring, as the house on the farm will be vacant. Mrs. Belle Patterson is improving.

Lion Tamer Apologizes

Editor Salem News.

Regarding the denial of the game by the "Indians" reported in the news paper, I wish to state that the Lion Tamer's club knew nothing about the game said to be played. Two members of this club including myself engaged in a practice with a few of the persons mentioned in the lineup and calling themselves the "Indians". I extremely regret my hasty action in reporting this game to The News, and I wish to publicly apologize both to the members of the "Indians" who were not in this game and to the remainder of the Lion Tamer's club. Hoping that this will clear the names of the two clubs mentioned and straighten out the matter, I am,

Yours truly,

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to your hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes, beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

STOPS SPREAD OF DISEASE

How the Panama Canal Has Been Turned to Good Account as a "Health Filter."

The geographical position of the Panama canal makes it possible to utilize it, in a quarantine sense, as a gigantic filter for the removal of disease from the circulation of maritime commerce, thus inhibiting the spread of disease, according to a report of the Panama canal health department.

The periodic fumigation of ships, the instruction of owners, agents and officers of ships as to the necessity for adequately rat-guarding vessels, the vaccination of crews, and passengers on board arriving ships, combine to this end as well as to the protection of the Canal Zone and the vessels using canal ports and waterways. For example, an outbreak of mild smallpox on one vessel was handled without secondary cases or spread to other ships of the fleet, and cerebrospinal meningitis on another steamship was also successfully controlled.

It is believed that the order directing attention to the necessity for adequately rat-guarding ships has produced results of widespread benefit; certainly the requirement of periodic fumigating has reduced greatly the occurrence of rodents on ships, many of which formerly teemed with rats, but now contain very few.

The total trade done in Russia last year represents only about 10 per cent of the trade in 1913.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN

When Mr. Myers of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, stepped into the drug store and asked his druggist for the best medicine he had in his store for woman's ills, is it any wonder he was handed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Mrs. L. K. Myers in writing of it says: "I had been weak, run down and had a pain in my left side for a long time, so I could not do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me in a short time so I was able to do all of my housework including washing and ironing, and now I feel fine all the time." As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for benefiting 95 women out of every 100 women who take it, it will pay every suffering woman to try it.

Clean Up Poison Soaked Kidneys Advises Dr. Carey

Thousands Die Every Year Because They Allow Poisonous Deposits To Accumulate in Kidneys

Don't flush your kidneys with harsh makeshifts, says Dr. Carey; they are too frail and delicately constructed to treat them rough.

For 40 years I have been using my Prescription No. 777 for kidney and bladder sickness and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. If you have specks floating before the eyes, puffs under eyes, clammy feet or moist palms, backache or side ache you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's Prescription No. 777 right away.

It has conquered thousands of cases of kidney and bladder diseases and is the medicine you can always depend upon. IMPORTANT—Dr. Daniel G. Carey has been a practicing physician for many years and his great Prescription No. 777, known for years as "Marsh-root," has cured thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. It is not a patent medicine and is only sold through drug stores in order to accommodate his patients. The J. H. Lease Drug Co., Floding's drug store and Bolger & French's.

PLANT TREES FOR POSTERITY

Do That and, as Writer Truly Says, Your Grandchildren Will Call You Blessed.

We all believe in laying up treasures in heaven; why, then, are we so slow in planting trees for posterity, which is a future realization about as far off? asks a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. We lay up national debts for posterity to pay, and it becomes us to provide for posterity something in the way of recompense, if it is nothing more than a fine mess of trees.

Would ye not that your grandfather had left you 100 acres of black walnut trees? Why, man, you would not have to work, though we doubt if indolence is a worthy legacy for anybody. However, the trees that grandfather planted are likely to serve a better purpose than the stocks and bonds that he planted. The use of them benefits mankind in general, and they make the waste places fruitful.

Then, watching the lumbermen felling the trees on the shores of his beloved Walden pond, said: "Thank God, man cannot cut down the clouds." Man is futile toward the clouds, but he can restore the woods. Perhaps it is because he feels that easily within his powers that he neglects beginning it. More poems have been written to the forest than forests have been planted. The poems are easiest, but all those who can't write about the majesty of trees, might get busy planting them. There's a lot of sentimental affluents in that.

PROGRESS IN FARM EXTENSION WORK

Having added up the reports of county agriculture and home agents from 85 counties, leaders of the agricultural extension service at Ohio State university summarize outstanding accomplishments of the year 1934 as follows:

The extension agents were aided in their efforts by 11,365 farm men and women, who volunteered service on project committees in 1,316 rural townships and communities of Ohio. Demonstrations conducted through these local committees, and through the county farm bureaus, led to the introduction of 134,374 bushels of seed wheat of the standard Ohio varieties. Reports from those who used such seed indicate that, without any extra expenditure of time and labor, it brought about five bushels more wheat to the acre. There is record of enough such wheat introduced to plant around 75,000 acres.

Similar demonstration methods further brought about introduction to Ohio farms of 2,679 head of registered livestock; and led to the planting of 11,124 new acres of alfalfa and 4,224 acres of soy beans.

A total of 20,870 farm youngsters engaged in junior project clubs, and turned out products valued at $341,704. Home demonstration specialists trained 8,357 farm women in 85 counties to pass on instruction in health, nutrition, clothing construction, and home labor saving devices to 37,281 other Ohio farm wives.

OIL OPERATIONS TO BE EXTENDED

Scouts Say Main Pool Lies Near Producers In Columbiana Field.

Developments in the Columbiana oil field are attracting many prospectors and experienced drillers. The latest to arrive on the scene is H. A. Lobaugh of Butler, Pa., who is trying to secure some leases and join in the search for the rich fluid.

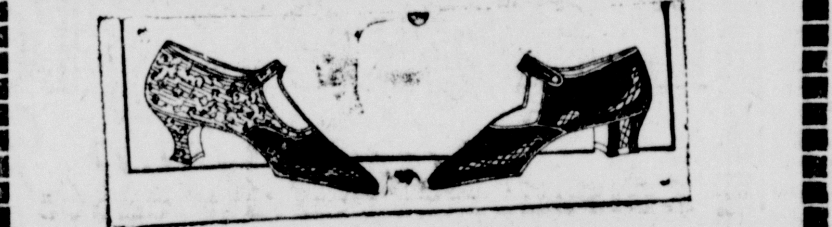

It is reported that 36 wells are being pumped, a large part of them being on the west edge of the field, all producing an average of more than ten barrels a day. Among them are some making 20 to 60 barrels with plenty of undeveloped land to the east and south.

Scouts who are keeping a close record of the new field say the main pool lies to the east and south of the present producers.

Early In Season.

Clearwater, Fla., March 23.—While it is a bit too early for predictions, it is nevertheless entirely possible that Willard Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is in a fair way to duplicate his notable achievement of the 1922 training trip in developing Dizzy Vance, Bert Griffith, Andy High and Decatur from untried rookies to regulars of the front rank. He plans to retain four youths from the squad of new men working out here daily and the leading candidates are showing sufficient speed to warrant the belief that they will be members of the club for an indefinite period.

Two of them are infielders. They tion play, where I went to call upon Mrs. Richards, an authoress to whom I had a letter of introduction. As we went along, he called my attention to objects and buildings so that I could not miss anything. It was very dark; there were few street lights; the rain was pouring down; there were no sidewalks, so we walked in the middle of the muddy streets.

After my call I started bravely to return but became confused, made a wrong turn and after wandering around helplessly in the darkness I appealed for help to a man and woman whom I met, saying that if they would just take me to the church, I could find the way from there.

Every time I went out alone, in daylight or dark, I became lost and wasted a good deal of time trying to find my lodgings. No wonder, for the street's branch off at any old angle. However I always knew the correct general direction.

See Passion Play

We retired early that night so as to be in good condition for the program of the next day. Breakfast was at 7 o'clock and immediately after, we started for the theater where the Passion play was given and which began promptly at 8 a. m. There was no difficulty in finding the theater for crowds of people were going in the same direction and we followed.

We had excellent seats in the middle of the house. Saturday evening each of us had bought a copy of the official text of the play and we both forgot to take it with us, but I did not forget my opera glasses. You understand, I was going to a theater and not to church.

The morning performance lasted till 12 noon without any intermission. It began with a prelude, recited and intoned by the Choragus (leader of Chorus). This was followed by a tableau, "Expulsion from Paradise," then a prologue, another tableau, "Adoration of the Cross," a chorus "Hail to Thee, O David's Son!" then the first act began with the triumphant entry into Jerusalem.

Acting Is Simple

The entire play was a series of events in the life of Christ, alternating with spoken prologues, choruses and tableaux. The tableaux were wonderful and illustrated Old Testament events as introductions to parallel references in the New Testament. For example, tableau, "The Sons of Jacob Conspire Against Joseph," was followed by the scene "The High Priests and Scribes," taking counsel together how they may get Jesus in their power.

The morning performance closed with the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane. A number of persons expressed the opinion that had the play ended with that scene it would have been much better. The afternoon performance began at 1:30 and lasted until 5 p. m., the last scene being that of the resurrection followed by the final tableau Ascension.

The work of the orchestra was excellent, the singing good but not unusual, the acting simple. The most difficult role was that of Judas and in this case was rather overdone, being too dramatic. The only really affecting scene was where Christ takes leave of his mother.

Crucifixion a Mockery

I am very sensitive to the portrayal of things sacred and I dreaded the scene of the crucifixion, fearing that it would be harrowing and more than I could bear, but it was not. I could not rid myself of the thought that the whole thing was a drama, a play, not a religious ceremony.

To me the dragging of, and staggering under the hollow wooden cross was a mockery, a farce. My neighbor on my right took out her watch and counted the minutes that the men were suspended on the crosses, then whispered "just 18 minutes."

Every one was interested in finding out how they were held in place. The Christ wears a belt around his waist under his draperies and which is fastened to a large hook on the cross. One foot rests upon a flat peg and the other is placed in front of it. The fingers of each hand are crooked enough to partly conceal the cord which hold the hands in place. There is practically no weight placed on the hands or arms. The other men had one arm thrown over the bar of the cross and no attempt was made to conceal the ropes with which they were tied to the cross.

Don't Observe Sunday

I do not quite understand the dissatisfied feeling or rather lack of feeling I had about the whole thing. In the first place I was shocked at the lack of the observance of Sunday. Some ladies who were stopping where I did, went to early mass expecting to see the actors there but they came back disappointed. Not an actor was in the church and there is but one church in the village. All the stores were open and driving a thriving business.

The whole atmosphere was business. It was the first time in my life that I attended a theater on Sunday, the first time that I ever bought pictures etc., on Sunday; in fact there was no observance of the Sabbath by anybody. I forgot that it was Sunday.

Commercialized! Yes, most decidedly. Sunday and Sunday evening were like Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening in the business section of Salem, Ohio.

The audience on Sept. 3, was the record attendance of the season. There were over 10,000 visitors in Oberammergau that day. Many walked the streets in the rain Saturday and Sunday nights because they had come without having made reservations.

Hate Still Exists

The performance was repeated Monday in a driving rain. The stage is without a roof except that part used for the tableaux and the scene of the crucifixion. The large chorus and the actors are exposed at all times to the elements. They have two costumes so that when one is wet through they change to a dry one and go on.

Some of you may have read in the Atlantic Monthly for Nov. 1922 an article entitled "Christ In Oberammergau." My feelings about the play resembles somewhat the feeling of that writer with regard to Antioch Lang.

He went to Oberammergau with the desire to speak with the one man in all Europe who would be free of hate, Antioch Lang, the Christus of the Passion play. He writes that the words of Lang, "The Passion play has a special mission this year * * * to bring the world together * * * . We hope no French will come to Oberammergau," broke his purpose in the middle with a clear ring and he went away saddened and disappointed. How could anyone play the part of Christ and say, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do!" with such hatred in his heart?

Germans Eat All The Time

We left Oberammergau Monday morning and had a fairly comfortable trip to Innsbruck, Austria, when we arrived about 2:30 p. m. We passed through the beautiful scenery of the Austrian Tyrol. As soon as we reached Innsbruck we had lunch in the station restaurant because there was no diner on the train. All the waiting rooms in this part of the country are lunch rooms. The Austrians and Germans eat, eat, eat and heartily too. Even during the Passion play those around us, and we were surrounded by Germans, lunched continually, morning and afternoon.

Innsbruck with its setting of mountains is an attractive place. We spent the night there staying at the Hotel De L' Europe where I paid 5.700 crowns for dinner, 52,000 crowns for my room and 8,600 crowns for my breakfast. Sounds - exorbitant but when I am reckoned in U. S. money I lose its sound of extravagance: 4,000 crowns equaled one dollar so the total bill was less than two dollars.

Chases Porter

We left Innsbruck the next morning and traveled through stupendous mountain scenery till we arrived at Graz, in Yugoslavia about 9 p. m., where we had an uncomfortable but thrilling wait. First we were sent one way while our luggage, except one piece that I insisted upon carrying, was sent another.

After various ins and outs we were herded into a large waiting room where passengers of first, second and third class were waiting to have baggage inspected and where we found our baggage had been taken. If we attempted to go any place we were waved back. The doors on the station platform were locked. The people spoke a mongrel language which we could not understand.

After waiting an hour or longer our baggage was inspected and as each piece was passed we endeavored to put it in a pile of our own. Suddenly a porter grabbed a suitcase and the bag containing my fur coat and made off. I ran after him, dashing past all guards but he was so quick that when I reached the corridor he had disappeared. I came to an open door on the platform and ran out and along the platform first one way and then another but did not find him and when I turned to go back into the station I couldn't find the door where I had come out.

I tried several doors but they were locked. Two men started to fight and a crowd collected. I went along the platform more or less excited looking through the windows until I found the room where my friends were then I ran back until I found the open door and made my way to the waiting room.

Later Mr. Ostrander rescued my bag from a room where it had been placed without a check of any kind. I held onto it tightly after that. A piece of baggage was stolen from a young lady in the waiting room while we were there and the officers did not get any trace of it.

Arrive In Serbia

We arrived in Zagreb, Serbia, the next morning about 6 o'clock and while Mr. Ostrander went to an up-town office to get railroad tickets and reservations on the Orient Express which could not be gotten in the station we staid in the waiting room guarding the baggage and watching the people.

It was market day and several trains came in bringing crowds of peasants. The women were dressed in white; the skirts were accented in white and were tucked up to keep them clean. They wore two or three layers of different colored aprons, gay kerchiefs on their heads, and soft shoes or moccasins of hide on their feet.

They certainly were picturesque as they walked off with great baskets of produce on their heads. While waiting we saw Serbian officers in striking uniforms, many Turks and one tall Russian in a peculiar black garb. In my mind I can see him now as he strode along the platform.

The train was late and it was about 11 o'clock when we went aboard. The Orient Express is an all sleeping and dining car train, the

GEORGE

By MILDRED WHITE

"I don't know," said Marion, "what I am going to do about it. These cousins of mine are coming, I know, for the very purpose of criticizing."

"But," objected Marion's friend, "I think you are very comfortable, Mirry, and Tom is devoted to himself."

"Exactly," Marion replied, "but I am obliged to do all my own housework, as well as Tom's mending. If only, Marion suggested, 'I might be able to find some woman to help me for the short time they are here.'"

Barbara leaned forward gazing contemplatively down the neat driveway of her friend's pretty home.

"Mirry," she said presently, "I am about to make a startling but sincere suggestion. Be prepared to take it seriously. I want to be your maid of all work during the time of your cousins' visit. Now, look here, dearie, wait a minute. Wouldn't it be just the nicest and most practical way of trying out my domestic science? What opportunity do I have to display my powers in my own tiny flat? Why, it would be a real thrill and adventure—and I am always—Bab, in search of a thrill. My dear, I will wear gingham dresses and serve at table most demurely."

Tom came in from the porch where he had been an enforced listener. "Now, look here, Marion," he said, "do let that girl carry out her plan. Have her working over a hot kitchen stove, in August—I guess not. And anyway, you'd tire of your game before the few days were over."

Barbara arose. "The question having been pleasantly settled in my favor," she said calmly, "I will depart for home. Soon I shall return with a supply of gingham dresses and fetching white aprons. I am all enthused to begin my 'job.'"

And Barbara was as good as her word. She hummed a gay little tune as Marion verbally objected, and at once assumed the role of servant.

"Please, missus," she said, tartly, "git out of my kitchen. I can't get on with folks about. When do your guests arrive?"

"At seven o'clock," Marion answered dolefully, "and I've thought of another reason, why they would want to come. They have heard of our unmarried professors and think that Tom will invite them to the house. Especially anxious will they be to try their charms on Professor Fairly. The fame of his book has probably reached them, and his location here in our own Wendicott."

The dinner was a great success; the waitress perfect. The two pretty guests mentioned this fact later to their cousin.

Marion interviewed her maid next morning in the kitchen. "If you prefer to do any of your marketing, Bab," she suggested, "you might call Tom's man in the garage to drive you to town."

"That was a clever idea of Tom's, following your lead to engage, while the girls are here, a sort of chauffeur and all-around man. Also he will get the vegetables you may need."

She sought out George in the garden near dinner time. He was weeding and wore a suit of soiled khaki.

"George," she said, "Mrs. Southall says that I am to ask you to get the vegetables for dinner. If you like, I will show you what I want."

"All right, Barbara," he agreed. "Barbara, that's your name, isn't it?"

She did not know how she should have managed had it not been for the willing helpfulness of George. From running the car and tending the garden he had succeeded in peeling dirty potatoes, and even patiently dried the dishes, Barbara perched on a high stool to wash them. One evening, catching his wistful gaze, the young woman asked abruptly:

"Have you never had ambition, George, for greater things?"

He folded his dish towel painstakingly as he quietly replied:

"I know now the greatest ambition of my life. I want to marry you, Barbara. I love you."

Silent she sat for a moment on her high stool. Tears filled Barbara's blue eyes.

Marion bustled into the kitchen. "They have gone," she announced. "Barbara, my dear, you have been a wonderful helper, but I am glad the farce is over."

Tom came lounging in after his wife.

"And you, too, George," he drawled, "get out of the khaki and into regulation evening clothes. We will entertain Professor Fairly as becomes his due."

Marion stared. "Tom," she cried, "do you mean to tell me—"

"It was George's own idea," Professor Southall defended, "though I must admit that it occurred to him after I had told him about Barbara's plan, and he had seen her from the college window."

"Excuse us now, please," George spoke crisply; "we would like to finish the dishes."

Without reproach, Barbara suffered the khaki covered arms to enfold her. "I will always love you best as you are now," she said.

"And let me tell you," her lover insisted, "that you were sweeter in those gingham dresses than the fairest of the fair."

Barbara glanced up demurely, and tried to make them fetching," she said "after Tom told me of your masquerading."

PASSION PLAY

cramped and the dining car service and meals were excellent.

We were on this train from 23 to 26 hours. The scenery from Zagreb to Sofia was less rugged and only that part traveled during the night escaped my attention.

Sight Dome in Sofia
Thursday, Sept. 7, at 2:30 p. m. We saw the glistening dome of a great church in Sofia shining in the distance. An hour later we were met at the station by relatives and friends of the Ostranders. Miss Clark took Miss Douglas and me home with her.

The next morning I drove with Miss Clark through the city, stopping to view the interior of the new Bulgarian Orthodox church whose dome we had seen from the train, when rules outside the city, a Jewish synagogue and a few other buildings.

We drove through the streets where the market was being held, our driver standing up and yelling at the peasants with their slow moving oxen and buffaloes to get out of the way.

The carriage in which we rode is called a phyton and the driver is a phytongee. He sits on a high seat in front without a cover or top. There is a top for the part where the passengers sit. The horses had bands of blue beads around their necks to keep off the evil eye.

Observes The Styles
The market certainly was interesting. There were peasant girls in all their finery. They wear a white garment which comes almost to their ankles and is either unbuttoned in the collar and on the large loose sleeves, or else it is trimmed with white lace.

Over this they wear what are in America called a jumper. It is made of heavy coarse black woolen cloth and is several inches shorter than the white slip. It is cut low at the neck and is stevedores to show the embroidery of the undergarment and is heavily braided around the neck and the bottom of the skirt with gold braid.

They wear their hair in two long braids but their heads are covered with a bright colored kerchief or a ranged prettily.

The men wear an embroidered shirt, a short braided jacket and trousers are very full, being left in pleats around the waist and tapering from the knee to the ankle, where they are tight fitting. Around the waist they wear a broad red scarf or sash wound around the body several times and spread out to a width of 18 inches or more. This is used as a pocket or place in which to carry almost anything from tobacco and matches to a lunch.

Both men and women wear moccasins or sandals held in place by a cord which will keep them from slipping off the hands wound around the leg almost to the knee.

Much To See in Sofia

There were many groups of gypsies in Sofia wearing the red and blue and the women in Turkish trousers. I thought that I had seen a great deal of Sofia that day and I did, but much remained unseen and unknown and although I have been there three times since, I expect to go again and find something new.

We left in the afternoon of the second day to come to Samokov. I think that journey and the life here worth describing and shall write you about it in a very short time.

Yours truly,
ELLA M. SNYDER.

UNCLE SAM AWARDS 8,000 WAR MEDALS

No More Hero Awards After April 7, Says Decoration Board.

Washington, March 23.—If you fought in the World war and you are figuring on getting a medal in return for what you did toward contributing to the abnormally high mortality rate existing among the Germans at that particular time, you will have to hurry.

The army decoration board created by the war department several years ago to investigate and award medals to deserving heroes of combat, will be disbanded April 7. All recommendations not approved by that time will automatically die. As the result of the World war, there have been awarded 5,944 Distinguished Service Crosses for bravery in action; 1,732 Distinguished Service Medals for successful performance of the work of great responsibility and 88 Congressional Medals of Honor.

In addition, there have been 106 Oak Leaf Clusters awarded to previous holders of the D. S. C., these men having distinguished themselves by bravery on more than one occasion. The Congressional Medal of Honor is the most highly prized decoration in the world. It is awarded only for highly exceptional bravery under enemy fire, and not even then unless the recipient did it outside of the line of his regular duty.

LISBON EXPECTS TO RETAIN PLANT

Lisbon, March 23.—Members of the Lisbon Chamber of Commerce expect within a few days to hear from the officials of the American Vitified Products company, definitely in regard to the rebuilding of their plant here which was partially destroyed by fire about three weeks ago.

It is understood that the company has been receiving some flattering offers from other towns who are trying to secure this factory and that these offers are being investigated by them. However, members of the chamber, do not fear the result of these offers as they say that the company has 12 kilns in their yards here, each one representing an investment of about $7,000, that they have a modernly equipped clay bank tapping a supply of superior clay which cannot be exhausted in the next 50 years. That this clay is situated on top of a vein of coal which can be and is used in firing the kilns, that their office building, loading platforms and other implement sheds were not damaged by the fire and that it would require an investment of over $100,000 to replace the kilns, mine and other buildings. They are of the opinion that if the company intends to build anywhere, it will build here.

FIRST GRAND OPERA ABOARD

Said to Have Been Presented at Mantua Years Before Columbus Made His Discovery.

Twenty years before Columbus alighted upon these shores opera emitted its first cry, at Mantua. Poliziani's "La Favola di Orfeo" had a brilliant premiere before what was probably described as a "large and enthusiastic audience." Accompanied by an orchestra, consisting of viols, pipes, flutes, dulcimers, lutes, harps, oboes, trombones and a portable folding piano, if we may believe the old illuminations, Orpheus was put through an engaging series of misfortunes. Chittenden Turner writes in Arts and Decoration. The tragic precedent of grand opera was here firmly established. Between Eurycleid, Tisiphone and Plato, Orpheus had little chance for orderly self-development or a profitable musical career. He finally enraged the opinionated manacled and was duly slain off the stage. His lyre afforded solos, as did the shepherd's pipe and there were dialogues and choruses, enlivened by dance and carnival songs.

Grand opera, now in its four hundred and fifty-second year, has reached its most imposing stature on American soil. However authorities may disagree as to its comparative excellence the greatest singers and conductors of the world are paid to cater to the presumably fastidious taste of our fellow citizens. Opera, being older than America, knows what is best. Call her if you will the pampered pet of the arts, or complain if you wish that all American art is manacled to its cradle by a ball and chain bearing the inscription "Made in Europe." The metaphors will be no more mixed than opera itself.

The first Woman's club in the United States was founded in Boston by Anne Hutchinson in 1638.

John S. Woodburn, et ux, to Howard E. and Anna E. Woodburn, lot 2306, Bradshaw's addition to East Liverpool, Consideration $1.

Andrew J. McDevitt, et ux, to John and Nannie Cooper, 156.21 acres in Wayne township, Consideration $5,000.

E. W. Dibble, et ux, to H. L. Davidson, lot 21, Kensington, Consideration $725.

Two Wills Probated

The wills of Herman Vonneman of Salem and Harry Gillespie of East Liverpool have been filed for probate with Judge Riddle. Owing to the fact that witnesses to both documents reside in other counties, commissioners have been issued by the court of justices of the peace in the city where they reside to take depositions. When these are returned the wills will be admitted and filed.

Divorce On Neglect Charge

Alleging that her husband was neglectful of her and had left her, Mrs. Rachel Coleman of East Liverpool was granted a divorce yesterday from Ralph Coleman and restored to her maiden name, Rachel Campbell.

Case Is Settled

The case of Cynthia Woodward vs. Milton R. Miller has settled yesterday afternoon in common pleas court and dismissed. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant had induced her to deed her far into him by misrepresentation and at a time when she was ill. The matter was settled satisfactorily after the parties had had a conference before the trial.

Gets New Desk

Miss Alice Glenn, court stenographer, has received a fine office desk which was manufactured at the Mansfield reformatory in the furniture shop there. The desk is modern, all details and compares favorably with the other equipment in the court house.

The Pope's daily average of letters is 22,000 and these are dealt with by 25 secretaries.

CALORIE

Emphasis used to be focused solely upon the caloric value of foods. Now, it is known that vitamin quality is equally essential to adequate nourishment.

Scott's Emulsion

has particular value as an energy-building food and tonic. It is also rich in vitamin factors, so important in building up the body and promoting healthful progress.
